Mayflower II to Put Into Provincetown Harbor

Cape Plans Royal Salute On M-Day

By GRACE DuCHARME

PROVINCETOWN—Cape Cod is preparing to the letter from its past a memorable and dramatic chapter. And up and down the cutwalk, wind-whipped land, Cape Codders are thrilling to the event, with which Cape Cod is intimately identified.

The Mayflower is coming again. And the pride and happiness of Cape Codders is something to see!

With the announcement that the Mayflower II, en route to Plymouth, will put into Provincetown Harbor—where the original Mayflower dropped anchor after her weary voyage—a thrill of excitement has swept the Cape from Provincetown to Sandwich.

"BOSS OF THE ISLAND," Nancy Kenny, is overseeing a press to make the casting of Mayflower II in Provincetown Harbor.

LAST MAYOR: Anna [illegible], who, as mayor, was the "first lady," one of the Provincetown officials who will greet Mayflower II off the tip of Cape Cod.
