Aerial photos of the Hinckley Company boatyard in Manset

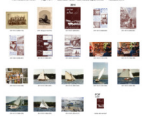

Identifier: 16696
Accession #: 2026_02
Title: Aerial photos of the Hinckley Company boatyard in Manset
Type: Image, Photograph, Photographic Print
Subject: Businesses, Boatbuilding Business
Description: The aerial photograph above appears to have been taken in the mid 1970s, but no earlier than 1974 because of the presence of a 1974 Pontiac Trans Am and what looks like a 1974 VW Super Beetle in the parking areas.

The other photo is older, possibly late 1950s, as is evidenced by the cars and the absence of some of the newer building in the first photograph.

In the older image, The Moorings is clearly visible in the upper right portion of the photo.

Ralph Stanley Inc.

Identifier: 3688
Title: Ralph Stanley Inc.
Type: Reference
Subject: Businesses, Boatbuilding Business
Description: After earning an associate's degree from a college in northern Maine, Stanley returned to Southwest Harbor. Not sure what occupation he wanted to pursue, he decided to try to build a boat. So he earned the money he needed to buy wood and other construction materials and, during the winter of 1951-1952, he built a 28-foot lobster boat. The boat turned out well and a local person bought it. This led to orders for other boats. "I've been building (boats) ever since," he said.

Stanley learned how to build boats not by apprenticing himself to another boatbuilder but mainly by keenly observing and using boats and by observing the activities of several professional boatbuilders who specialized in the Mt. Desert Island version of the Maine lobster boat.

The Henry R. Hinckley Company - as Manset Boat Yard - Coast Guard Boats on the Old Shore

Identifier: 12517
Title: The Henry R. Hinckley Company - as Manset Boat Yard - Coast Guard Boats on the Old Shore
Type: Image, Photograph
Subject: Vessels, Boat
Businesses, Boatbuilding Business
Description: This photograph was taken before the Manset shore was filled in.

According to Ralph Warren Stanley (1929-2021), the White boat hauled up on shore in front of the William Spurling Newman house at 102 Shore Road, Map 17 Lot 100 was probably built by Leslie Les M. Rice (1883-1966) on Great Cranberry Island for William Uncle Jimmy Doane Stanley (1855-1950). She was built as a double ender.

Someone bought her and put a square stern on her.

Work was slow at Hinckleys for awhile so Bill Dunham (Wilfred Manson Dunham (1918-2001) and Lewis Tapley (Lewis Merton Tapley (1916-1985) bought her and went fishing, though not for long. Work picked up at the Hinckley yard soon afterward.

The vessel was then bought by Abner W. Lunt (1908-1975), then she was bought by Luther C. Faulkingham (1901-1993) of Prospect Harbor, where she was the last time Ralph saw her.

The wharf building with the false front was the building that Francis Frank Thompson Chalmers Sr. (1893-1985), F. Dwight Perkins (1902-1981) and Merton S. Alley (1904-1985) had a car dealership in. Almon Frank Ramsdell Srs (1873-1946) garage was there later. Hinckley may have owned the building when this picture was taken. James Jim M. Willis (1919-2006) later ran The Boathouse there. Description: The Hinckley Company started in 1928 as the Manset Boatyard in Southwest Harbor, Maine. Henry R. Hinckleys focus was on servicing the local lobster boats as well as the yachts of summer residents on Mt. Desert Island. Today Hinckley builds boats at its production facilities in Trenton, Maine, but the original Manset yard is at the heart of the Hinckley legend. Today it ranks as a world class service facility.

Description: Photos taken in 1941 and 1942.

The following comes from interviews with Ralph Warren Stanley between 2009 and 2013.

The stern post was from an old elm tree on Carrie Joyces lawn. She sold the tree to Bink Sargent for $100. Carrie thought she was rich, as, at that time, she was getting an old age pension of $30 a month. She hired a car and got Ralph Stanleys grandmother, Celestia Lessie Gertrude (Dix) Robinson, Mrs. Ralph Judson Robinson (1875-1961), to go shopping in Bangor with her. Carrie got a blister on her heel from walking around Bangor.

Bink paid Harvard Gilley and Jack Ramsdell $15 and a pint of rum to cut the tree down. Henry Dunbar was running the mill at Southwest Boat at the time and he said that they sawed that tree into logs and lumber and used every bit of it.

Description: A collection of yet to be curated photographs of the construction of picket boats built by the Henry R. Hinckley Company for the military during WWII. A picket boat is a type of small naval craft used for harbor patrol and other close inshore work.

"There were two open storage sheds [in 1941] in Manset. When the Coast Guard boat contract [for picket boats] came, we had to set about immediately joining these buildings together in order to have a place to build them. These buildings are still part of the main assembly building." The Hinckley Story, p. 30.

Type: Image, Photograph

Subject: Businesses, Boatbuilding Business

Description: Built in Lubec as a sardine carrier and rebuilt at Southwest Boat Corporation as the first purse seiner in Maine.

Photos 1257-1 and 1257-2 shown Sewanhaka after being rebuilt. Photos 3361 and 2262 show her before.

The Canadian fishermen had developed the purse seining industry in Canadian waters and were getting substantial amounts of herring during the winter. Carroll Peacock followed the advice of one of his carrier captains, Andrew Martin, and decided to get in on it. He sent the carrier, Sewanhaka to Southwest Harbor to be rigged up as a purse seiner. The first few attempts with the purse seine were failures because the boat was too small, so they decided to re-build her. The next year the Sewanhaka was sent to Wagstaff & Hatfield boat yard in Port Greville, N.S. to be built over. When she was finished, she was an 85 seiner/carrier that could carry 135 hogsheads in her three holds. The Sewanhaka was the first purse seiner rigged for the herring fishery on the East Coast of the United States. - Canned: A History of the Sardine Industry by John Gilman pp. 221-222.

Subject: Businesses, Boatbuilding Business

Description: 1941 - With World War II on the horizon, [Henry Rose Hinckley II (1907-1980)] goes to Washington D.C. to secure contracts for military boats. His first order is for twenty 38-foot Coast Guard picket boats. By the end of the war, 93 of these boats are built for the Coast Guard, using production line techniques developed for the Islander.

The yard also builds 24-foot Navy personnel boats, motor mine and tow yawls (using a hull design that would briefly reappear 30 years later in fiberglass yacht club launches), shallow-draft towboats and sailing yawls as part of the war effort By the end of the war, Hinckley will have built nearly 40% of the 1,358 boats built in Maine for the war. - The Hinckley Company History

Note the peavey stuck into the ground (above the O on the DETOUR sign). A peavey is a logging tool with a wooden shaft and metal hook invented in 1857 by blacksmith Joseph Daniel Peavey (1799-1873) of Stillwater, Maine, as a refinement to the cant hook to manhandle logs on logging runs. The Peavey Manufacturing Co. is still located in Maine (Eddington, Maine) and manufactures several variations.
